

Wanted

Click here to Submit your details

Many early stage startups require experienced personnel to provide advice and practical guidance, usually rolling-up their shirt-sleeves to help:

- Get that first round of investment
- Get the product out the door on budget and on time
- Find that elusive first customer.

An interim executive can also use their management experience and know how to stay cool and calm, in a chaotic, fast-paced environment. If you are looking for an experienced manager or executive in the high-tech or media sector in Europe, then promote directly with an advert in Chilli Pages. Click here to submit more details and place an advert in the wanted section.

The Chilli politely requests that agencies refrain from using this facility on the Chilli Pages.